rutted roads, and tracks that are for 4-wheel use only as they are not designed for hard impacts and landings. When taken off “made roads” onto “dirt roads” or similar road structures, the owner is responsible for setting the correct tyre pressures and towing the caravan to the conditions, to ensure that the caravan is not compromised.

CCSOR range of vans are built to this class. They are designed and constructed to give additional strength and ground clearance as required for the individual models for limited unsealed road usage. Statutory restraints such as gas regulations and construction constraints, limit the purchaser of this class of van to this 24-month warranty. No warranties can be expressed by Concept Caravans for vans exposed to water levels at crossings, or similar water bodies, that are at or above the level of the body floor.

When driving on uneven surfaces, extra care and attention is required. Concept Caravans highly recommends towing at safe speeds in keeping with the travel and terrain conditions. CCSOR designed vans are not for use on tracks for four-wheel-drive purposes and should not be used on such tracks. When exploring such tracks, use of your tow vehicle in isolation is recommended (keeping to the tow vehicles guidelines), whilst parking your van at a secure storage site.

Concept Caravans highly recommend that you take care and tow the van at speeds and in keeping to the conditions that prevail, both terrain and weather. Maintaining the correct tyre pressure in keeping with the terrain conditions is essential.

In addition to the ‘General Exclusions’ detailed in Clause 5.0; the following items are excluded from the CCSOR warranty:

- Impact or stone damage to the van body, chassis and running gear
- Water damage caused at water crossings or similar water bodies encountered
- Damage incurred by dislodgment of fitments and appliances caused through movement on corrugated or uneven surfaces
- Use of tracks as detailed above resulting in damage
- Damage arising out of misuse
